

Membership of the NAG

NAG members are actively supported in the improvement of their competitive positions and international businesses. The NAG offers a wide range of services and financial benefits to its membership.

Promotion of collective interests

Membership to the NAG can contribute to increased revenue and continuity for its members through the transfer of knowledge and promotional activities within the trade.

- The NAG promotes members' interests to national and international (government) institutes.
- The NAG organises collective participation at international aviation-related events and exhibitions.
- The NAG initiates and organises trade missions to both new and existing markets.
- The NAG raises awareness of the aviation and aerospace sector (manufacturing & maintenance industry, and airport development) through its extensive network, publications, and website.
- The NAG supports collective business developments by setting up business cases and organising trade missions.
- The NAG organises seminars, matchmaking events, and company visits which supplement collective participation in exhibitions and trade missions.

Knowledge centre

With the NAG knowledge centre, the association provides a wide range of specialist knowledge, particularly for the SME. The knowledge centre offers members support with different business cases and can also be contacted for specific questions regarding information about foreign markets.

- Members can approach the NAG knowledge centre with questions relating to aviation.
- The knowledge centre organises various clusters within the membership based on product-market combinations for the mutual exchange of information and the increasing of market opportunities.
- The knowledge centre organises courses, initiates meetings and carries out specific projects on topical issues, including certification, innovation, export control, quality systems, and grant applications.

Individual business support

The NAG is involved in both national and international (development) projects and encourages members to participate.

- With local NAG representation in Brazil, France, Turkey and the United Kingdom in combination with the network of embassies and consulates, members have at their disposal worldwide support in the area of marketing and sales.

Practical benefits

As an NAG member, you can enjoy several practical benefits:

- Have a say in NAG policies and activities.
- Discounted rates on exhibition participation, trade missions, training seminars and courses.
- List your company on the NAG website, newsletter, brochures, annual reports, and international trade fairs.
- Access to the NAG's entire network and specific market information.

Do you wish to enjoy the benefits and, together with the NAG, strengthen the Dutch aviation sector in the Netherlands and beyond?
Then become a member of the NAG!

Contribution NAG 2019

Contribution

The NAG's current contributions are based on the following sliding scale which classifies the member company according to the number of employees whose work specifically benefits the airline and aerospace sector.

Category	1	0 t/m 25 employees	€ 2.557,14	per calendar year
Category	2	26 t/m 100 employees	€ 3.191,58	per calendar year
Category	3	101 t/m 250 employees	€ 4.159,56	per calendar year
Category	4	251 t/m 500 employees	€ 5.105,10	per calendar year
Category	5	501 -> employees	€ 5.746,68	per calendar year

Registration fee € 2.866,20

The registration fee is a one-off payment upon registering for membership.

Cluster discount

Clusters of companies belonging to a consortium or holding receive a discount on their contribution. This does not apply to the registration fee. This percentage is determined as follows:

2 participants	10% each
3 participants	15% each
4 participants	20% each
5 or more participants	25% each

“Starters” membership

Especially for start-up companies, the association offers for a limited period the opportunity to be a Starter member. A Starter is, in principle, a company that at the time of registration has existed for less than two years and has a maximum of four employees. The contribution is significantly lower, namely:

- € 1280,10 per calendar year and
- € 621,18 registration fee.

The maximum duration of a Starters membership is two years. After this, membership can be converted into normal membership. Regarding the registration fee, money already paid towards it will be deducted off the total amount payable.

Terminating membership

Your membership is renewed annually on 1st October.
To end your NAG membership, written notice of termination must be submitted to the NAG office before 1st October.